

Lei Cao

Lei Cao received her M.S. degree in Neuroimaging and Informatics from University of Southern California. After graduation, she worked at McLean Hospital as a research assistant and subsequently a data analyst at Child Mind Institute. She's currently a data analyst at The Ohio State University. Her research interest is investigating the underlying mechanism of different brain functions and design potential pharmacological intervention to improve the daily life of children with neuronal and psychological disorders.