

Haksoon Ahn, Ph.D.

Dr. Ahn is an Associate Professor at the University of Maryland, School of Social Work. Dr. Ahn's research interests include child and family welfare, and advanced quantitative analysis utilizing large scale datasets. Dr. Ahn has been leading a range of research projects funded by Maryland Department of Human Services as a Principal Investigator. These projects include a statewide evaluation of effectiveness and efficiency of child welfare services and policies; Children and Family Services Review (CFSR) and Continuous Improvement Plan (CQI), Family Centered Practice, and Recruitments and Retention of Foster Parents. Dr. Ahn received her MA and PhD in Social Policy from Brandeis University, Heller School for Social Policy and Management.